Which is to be our rule of faith?

The republicans of Oregon in their last state platform declared "in favor of reducing the annual surplus revenues of the government by admitting free of duty such articles of general use as cannot be largely produced or manufactured by our people." This is a sensible declaration, and is further commended to our support by the recommendations of such re- cuss another marital obligation publican presidents as Grant, Haves and Arthur. With such a plan of tariff revision, the republicans of Oregon won a signal victory, and is it not good enough for our present national contest?

When our correspondent charges want of consistency, he should be careful to ascertain to whom the fault applies. We are unwilling to countenance a course of policy that is in conflict with the avowed principles of the party. We cannot reconcile with sound statesmanship the morals of the country with free rum rather than touch this fiscal fetish set up for our worship. The position held by THE JOURNAL is consistent with that of the leading republicans in the past, who have for many years advocated a reasonable revision of the present tariff would save one-tenth of one per cent. "In the direction of decreasing the cast of the necessaries of life, and of supplying American workmen with supplying American workmen with the direction of decreasing the cast of the necessaries of life, and of supplying American workmen with the direction of the present tariff would save one-tenth of one per cent. Such a view does not neutralize our support of Harrison and Morton. The Chicago Tribune, the St. Paul Pioneer-Press and other influential republican journals render hearty ald and assistance to the republican nominoes, while they are outspoken Pegularity, no more backache, no in their demand for tariff revision.

TRAIN BOBBERS FOILED.

It is refreshing to hear of a little grit shown by train hands when robbers make a felonious assault on their train. On Saturday a gang of rufflans attacked a Union Pacific train as it lay at a water tank not far from Rawlins, Wyoming. The engineer and fireman were attending to their duties when three men rushed up, and covering them with: revolvers, ordered them to throw up their arms. The robbers had the drop on them and they could only comply. But the front brakeman showed fight. He smashed one robber in the face with a lump of coal, and grappling him the two had a desperate struggle. This disconcerted the outlaws and they turned and ran, but the brakeman was shot in the arm and hip. This brave defense of the company's rewarded, because such a show of resistance as this on every occasion in pursuit of the fleeting robbers.

Knowing the readers of the Union Signal will be glad to learn that the gospel of temperance has reached the uttermost parts of our land, I send this line. We held the first temperance meetings in this territory two Boys and Girls. weeks ago at Sitka, and as a result of our efforts organized two local unions, one among the natives and one among the whites; such departments as would meet the needs of property should be generously the place were taken up and superintendents appointed.

ship. The law enacted by congress relative to teaching scientific temperance in the schools, is thoroughly enforced both in the government and mission schools. I was strongly supported in the work by the moralloving portion of the community, and it was with a feeling of sincere regret that I stepped aboard the steamer for the next port. So the cause marches on and noble women all over the land are putting their hand to the plow and their shoulder to the wheel," and as we see the results our faith grow stronger, and we already see the golden fringe of the mantle of temperance that will soon cover the land.
